RFID for the Supply Chain and Operations Professional

Implementation of RFID is a significant investment for any organization of any size. Some companies implementing the technology may be doing so only to comply with a mandate from their supply chain customers. These companies are being reactive in their focus by implementing a simple slap-and-ship system that fulfills the short-term requirement. They are missing the opportunity to take advantage of the capabilities of RFID to improve their internal operations. Companies that take a more
